Thematic Essay
Friday, 20th April 2007

John Quincy Adams and Andrew Jackson were two very different presidents. Both tried to unify the country. Both believed they were looking after the welfare of the people.

Describe any significant presidential decision or policy of each president. Tell why the president made the decision each did. Tell what the public reaction was in each case.

In your conclusion, describe which president you favor and explain.

The best essays will include names, dates, and places to support the response.

A worksheet is attached to help you study, but you cannot use any notes for the essay itself.
